In honor of Black History Month, the Pollak Library children's literature exhibit will feature books that have been awarded the Coretta Scott King Book Award.

For more than forty years, the Coretta Scott King Book Award has recognized outstanding children’s literature by African American writers and artists whose works reflect an appreciation of African American culture and experiences from both historical and contemporary perspectives.

The exhibit, located in the lobby of PLN 4th floor, will showcase CSK Award winning children’s literature from the Pollak Library curriculum materials and juvenile collections, as well as critical studies and articles on African American children’s literature. The exhibit is complemented by an online resource guide: libraryguides.fullerton.edu/csk

We welcome all CSUF Community to visit this student curated exhibit. Exhibit runs February through March.
